

FAR-2XX7 Operation

This quick-user guide describes the most commonly used functions and features of the FAR2XX7 series radars. It is not intended to be a substitute for the operator's manual, which should be referred to for more detailed information.

The FAR2XX7 can be operated via individual buttons and knobs on the full-sized keyboard, (Shown below) or via the track-ball "point and click" method, which is common to both the full-sized keyboard and trackball only control.

The dual function keypad shown below can be used to initiate direct actions, or to access numbered menu items (or enter numbers) when in the menu mode. When no menus are open, the function (Shown below the number) will be performed.

